

Sublime Comporta

Fish&Pips

LOCATION:

Portugal

From the moment we discovered the Sublime Comporta, we knew our guests would feel right at home. Sandwiched between miles of empty white sandy beaches, rice fields and the Sado river estuary, it's hard to believe this is Europe. Describing itself as a country house retreat, Sublime sits in its own 17 hectare estate, with the suites and villas scattered amongst pine and cork trees and drifting swathes of wild flowers. It is truly at one with nature, with sustainability at its heart and everything blending effortlessly into this lush and unspoilt part of the Iberian Peninsula. Couple this with a warm welcome, friendly staff, sophisticated local cuisine and plenty of activities to keep you occupied, and you'll understand why the locals want to keep it all under the radar. And if you're really lucky, you may see the pod of dolphins that live just off the coast. We love this hotel for its laid back vibe, un-spoilt stunning location, friendly staff and it's respect for nature

"It really is all in the name."

About Portugal:

Portugal's Atlantic coastal setting has defined its history and culture, making it a country worthy of exploring. It's a place of diverse landscapes, endless stretches of beaches, culinary treats, and a warm and open people. Culturally, Portugal has lots to offer from castles to monasteries, from music and food festivals to religious celebrations. Our chosen Portugal hotel is designed with the environment and your well-being at the centre. Here they make the most out of their natural resources with a vast variety of activities on offer on both the land and the sea. The local gastronomy is not to be underestimated, with an abundance of seafood, delicious herbs, olive oil and a delicious variety of wines.
